

The Transition of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Students into Higher Education

The Nulungu Way of doing business is...

Right People Right Country Right Way

Asking information from universities, key personnel and students past and present.

Acknowledging diversity of people, contexts and circumstances by capturing the voice of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people across the country.

Reporting on successful practices and explaining what works (enablers) and what else could be done to overcome the challenges (constraints). This report is especially interested in focusing on underrepresented Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people who are not sufficiently accessing the benefits of higher education. The report will inform Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people, Universities, Governments and others.

Funding for this Project has been provided by the Office for Learning & Teaching, an initiative of the Australian Government. The views expressed do not necessarily reflect the views of the Australian Government.

positive stories

sharing what works

dissemination to a wide audience

THE UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME
AUSTRALIA

Nulungu
Research Institute
The University of Notre Dame Australia